

Los Angeles Times

Thursday, March 21, 1985

'BEFORE STONEWALL'

United States, 1984, 97 minutes

12:30 and 7:30 p.m.

A comprehensive, entertaining and enlightening history of the American gay movement before its current state of activism. Utilizing historic footage and interviews with "witnesses," the film emerges as both fresh and direct in manner. Film maker Greta Schiller refrains from "pointing fingers" or establishing battle lines in detailing the changing moods within and outside of the community. The film emerges as both genuinely substantive and highly credible.

RECOMMENDED. —LEONARD KLADY